With approximately 65 clients throughout the Southwest, TSG specializes in delivering customized, innovative programs that foster employee wellbeing, productivity and retention.

Prior to joining Presbyterian, Susie was President and CEO of The Solutions Group, a wellness and Employee Assistance Program company she founded with business partner Adam Stern in 1999. Presbyterian purchased The Solutions Group in 2013.

As a leader, Susie values inclusion and collaboration as tools for gaining employee trust and loyalty. During her 14 years as a successful business owner, Susie created a work environment that fostered both creativity and empowerment. She has continued that approach in her role at Presbyterian, where many members of the original TSG team continue to work today. TSG partners with clients in much the same way, developing programs and services to meet the unique health needs of their employees while making individual wellbeing a top priority.

Passionate about health and wellness, Susie prides herself on both her personal and professional commitment to living and supporting a balanced lifestyle. She is a seasoned motivational speaker with a reputation for inspiring her audience with engaging examples and workshop concepts that offer real life applications.
